Chicago people don't need Roanoke rays to convince them that there is something in their drinking water. They feel it wriggling as it goes down.

Nansen having found the north pole, it is now in order for somebody to find Nansen, and a Chicago syndicate has been organized for that laudable purpose.

Two poultrykeepers in Bronson, Mich., kept last year on the number of eggs laid by a certain number of hens. One man had 329 hens, which laid 32,782 eggs during the year. The other got 24,827 eggs from 270 hens.

The information into the United States from China and Japan is forbidden on account of the prevalence of cholera in the Asiatic countries. Nothing holds the germs of disease as well as the soil in which the plants are "hatched."

James G. Blaine's old saddle horse, Denham, died the other day at a farm near Trenton, Me., at the ripe age of twenty-five years. After Mr. Blaine's death, Mrs. Blaine sent the horse to the farm and paid a liberal allowance annually for his support.

Russia is keeping the diplomats of the world guessing as to whether she has the upper hand of England in Turkey, and it now looks as though the czar was deliberately planning to gain such a foothold in Corea as will enable him to establish a protectorate.

Three car loads of excellent horses were sold in Denver last week at $10 apiece. They have been shipped all the way from Walla Walla, Wash. The horses were of fine stock, and, but a short time since, would have brought at least $100 apiece in the same market.

State pride is playing an important part in the building of the new state capital at Olympia, Wash. No material except that produced in the state is used in its construction. In the matter of lumber, for whatever purpose, only such as is grown in Washington is to be used.

A morning justice in Chicago recently fined a "fresh" young man for kissing a pretty girl on the North Side. The item soon after appeared in a Rochester paper, since which time the gay and festive youths of that city have been anxiously trying to find out which is the north side of a Chicago girl.

There would be no objection to England appointing a commission to try and find the true boundary line between Venezuela and British Guiana. The very fact of such an appointment would be an acknowledgment that England had been at the wrong end in handling this matter, for she began by claiming what she concedes to be in doubt.

In the New Year's procession at Konigsberg, in 1888, a bologna sausage exhibited by the "butcherment" was 122 feet in length, and was carried on the shoulders of sixty-seven men and boys. The one exhibited in the same city in the year 1883 was over 1,000 feet in length, and weighed 434 pounds.

A bridegroom of ninety was married to a bride of sixty-eight at Meriden, Conn., last week. Each had been married twice before. A good deal of interest was evinced in the match, and the contracting parties made public announcement of a time for the ceremony. They were married a few hours earlier, and got safely and quietly away.

Albany, Ga., has a quaint advertisement, whose style is shown in this paragraph: "Lots of men would be up-stuck and biggity when everybody praised their work, but I am not that way. I speak just as politely to a poor man as I do to one who owns a meal fork. That's my way."

A curious lake has been found in the island of Kildine, in the North sea. It is separated from the ocean by a narrow strip of land, and contains salt water under the surface, in which sponges, codfish and other marine animals flourish. The surface of the water, however, is perfectly fresh, and supports dolphins and other fresh-water creatures.

If the story that Gen. Weyler, the new Spanish commander in Cuba, had thirty political prisoners shot the other morning proves true, we may expect to hear of reprisals. It must be that Gomez and Macao have plenty of Spanish prisoners, and that hands. If not, they will soon capture some, and then the war will degenerate into savage butchery.

An Illinois judge denounced in unmeasured terms the recent lynching disgrace in that state, which had no excuse whatever, as the victim was certain to be tried and the case against him was by no means clear at all. He maintained his innocence to the last, and sentiment in the community is still divided as to his guilt. The Illinois authorities owe it to themselves to punish the lynchers, if they can possibly be identified.

Mr. Joseph Chamberlain is just now being pointed out as a hopeful man who has his eye on the premiership. He has had the advantage of all Lord Salisbury's mistakes and of being able to say the right thing after the latter has said the wrong one. It is he who secured the transfer of Jamestown to England and who persuaded President Kruger to follow. These are two rather remarkable achievements and have undoubtedly done much to heal the British soreness over Venezuela and Turkey.

Stamp collectors are a source of considerable revenue to many countries. New Zealand recently issued a letter-card with scenic designs, and so great was the demand from collectors that the supply was soon exhausted. The authorities then changed the color of the card, and the demand for the different color was almost as great as had been for the original series. In seven months nearly 400,000 cards were bought by the hobbyists, bringing the colony a clear profit of considerable over $10,000.

A MURDEROUS ASSAULT.

John Pryde Lures Andrew Peterson into the County and Deliberately Shoots and Robs Him.

The Victim Revives, Crawls to a Farm House and is Still Alive. Pryde is Arrested and Confesses.

The most deliberate attempt at murder ever perpetrated in this vicinity occurred on Monday evening a short distance from C. J. Christian's place, near Brainerd. The victim was Andrew Peterson, a man of about 50 years and a stranger in this city, and the fiend who committed the deed was John Pryde, a young man 21 years of age who had made Brainerd his home for over a year and who was quite well known by the employees of the Brainerd mill.

On the evening of the crime, Peterson was on his way to a man with blood streaming from wounds in his head staggered up to their door and asked for help saying that he had been shot. With all possible haste a team was hitched and the man was brought to this city and taken to the Lumberman's hospital where his wounds were dressed and every possible attention given him. It was found that he had been shot three times with a 38 calibre revolver and that all the bullets had entered his head, one at the corner of his right eye ranging downward, and the other two in the back of his head. The man rallied sufficiently to tell how the shooting occurred, stating that John Pryde had written him a letter to come to Brainerd as he had a job for him in the mill, and that he had arrived Monday evening on the Brainerd and Northern Minnesota road from Camp 2 where he had been at work and was met by Pryde at the depot. Pryde told him the place was some miles out in the country and he would walk out with him and show him the way. Peterson wanted to ride down on the street car but Pryde objected and made a circuitous route following the river around to the railroad bridge which they crossed and went out on the Red Sand lake road. When some distance out Pryde asked Peterson to loan him money to ride back to the street car and the latter gave him a quarter. Shortly after this Peterson says Pryde asked him to walk ahead in the road and pulled a revolver shooting him in the head, Peterson falling at the first shot, which was followed by two more shots after he was down. Pryde, thinking he was dead, went through his pockets getting one silver dollar and over-looking $41 in bills and the decoy letter, which is printed below, which was in an inside pocket. After Pryde had gone Peterson revived and saw the light in the Christian house and managed to drag himself to it where he was taken care of as above stated.

The authorities were at once notified and Sheriff Spalding, Tuesday morning and Peterson identified him as the man who had made the attempt on his life. Pryde stoutly maintained that he was innocent and claimed to be able to prove a perfect alibi. Sheriff Spalding spent Tuesday forenoon in looking the matter up and before dinner time had conclusive evidence that he had the right man when Pryde was confronted with it he admitted his guilt, and the confession which he made Tuesday evening to Sheriff Spalding, Wm. Dodd and County Attorney Chipmunk is substantially as follows:

My name is John E. Pryde and am 21 years old. Have made Brainerd my home for about a year and have worked for the Brainerd Lumber Co. a good deal of time. I was in the woods at Camp 2 working for the Minnesota Logging Company as a cook about two months, leaving there Feb. 14, 1906. Since I left Brainerd I have been boarding with Mr. Halliday near the mill. I met Andrew Peterson while in the woods and on Feb. 21 I wrote a letter to him asking him to come to Brainerd Monday night. After dinner on Monday I borrowed Mr. Halliday's revolver and went down to the landing and stayed there until about 4 o'clock when I saw a light in the distance and the B. & N. M. local train came and met Peterson and we went down the Northern Pacific switch track, going through Brainerd on the north side of the track, crossing over Hallett's going across the railroad bridge and out into the country. When near Red Sand lake I shot Andrew Peterson three times, twice before he fell and once after he fell. The last time I shot him he had his hand up over his face. There were only three loads in the pistol as I had shot it twice in the afternoon. I thought he was dead and I ran away. The shooting took place about 8:30 and I came back to town going to the saw mill about 10:30 and remained there until midnight. I then went to my boarding house put the revolver under the show case and went to bed. I had made up my mind to shoot Peterson before I left town and when we got to where I thought it was a good place to shoot him. The reason for my shooting him was because I was mad at him. The letter found on Peterson was written by me, but the statement in it that I had a job for him was untrue, and was written to make sure he would come down Monday.

The following is the DECOY LETTER.

BRAINERD, MINN., Feb. 21, '06.

FAIRBANKS, MINN. Now I want you to come down to Brainerd Monday as Mrs. Brown wants you to go to work. I was out to see her and she told me to write for you to come down Monday. The 24th of Feb. Now be sure and come down as she has got lots of work to do and she wants a man awful bad. Now I will look for you Monday. I will be at the train to meet you Monday night. Now be sure and come down to Brainerd Monday. From the cook, J. Pryde.

Pryde is a German and states that his parents are well-to-do people residing on a farm 50 miles out from Chicago. He expresses the hope that Peterson will live as he fears his neck will be stretched in case the wounds prove fatal.

Up to the time of going to press Peterson was alive and apparently improving. He is a widower and has children living in Wisconsin. His brother, John Peterson, lives at Melkato and he also has a sister living in St. Paul.

Sheriff Spalding is entitled to much credit for the manner in which he handled the matter and secured the confession, as the latter will save the county several hundred dollars in the matter of trial which would have followed.

The candidacy of A. D. Davidson as district attorney is the subject of much discussion in various parts of the Sixth district. Mr. Davidson is a resident of Morrison county, a county that has never asked or received anything from the party, and all other things considered the gentleman and the county should be honored by his selection.

OVERWORK INDUCED Nervous Prostration

Complete Recovery by the Use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla

BRAINED.

Chicago people don't need Roentgen rays to convince them that there is something in their drinking water. They feel it wriggling as it goes down.

Nansen having found the north pole, it is now in order for somebody to find Nansen, and a Chicago syndicate has been organized for that laudable purpose.

Two poultrykeepers in Bronson, Mich., kept tally last year on the number of eggs laid by certain number of hens. One man had 320 hens, which laid 32,782 eggs during the year. The other got 24,827 eggs from 270 hens.

The importation into the United States of plants from China and Japan is forbidden on account of the prevalence of cholera in the Asiatic countries. Nothing holds the germs of disease as well as the soil in which the plants are shipped.

James G. Blaine's old saddle horse, Deanna, died the other day at a farm near Trenton, Me., at the ripe age of twenty-five years. After Mr. Blaine's death, Mrs. Blaine sent the horse to the farm and paid a liberal allowance annually for his support.

Russia is keeping the diplomats of the world in suspense. It is conceded that she is the upper hand in England in Turkey, and it now looks as though the czar was deliberately planning to gain such a foothold in Corea as will enable him to establish a protectorate.

Three car loads of excellent horses were sold in Denver last week at $10 apiece. They have been shipped all the way from Walla Walla, Wash. The horses were of fine stock, and, but a short time, would have brought at least $100 apiece in the same market.

State pride is playing an important part in the building of the new state capital at Olympia, Wash. No material except that produced in the state is used in its construction. In the matter of lumber, for whatever purpose, only such as is grown in Washington is to be used.

A morning justice in Chicago recently fined a "fresh" young man for kissing a pretty girl on the North Side. The item soon after appeared in a Rochester paper, since which time the day and festive youths of that city have been anxiously trying to find out which is the north side of a Chicago girl.

There would be no objection to England appointing a commission to try and find the true boundary line between Venezuela and British Guiana. The very fact of such an appointment would be an acknowledgment that England had been at the wrong end in handling this matter, for she began by claiming what she conceded to be in doubt.

In the New Year's procession at Koushberg, in 1588, a bologna sausage exhibited by an onlooker was 622 feet in length, and was carried on the shoulders of sixty-seven men and boys. The one exhibited in the same city in the year 1583 was over 1,000 feet in length, and weighed 434 pounds.

A bridegroom of ninety was married to a bride of sixty-eight at Meriden, Conn., last week. Each had been married twice before. A good deal of interest was evinced in the match, and the contracting parties made public announcement of a time for the ceremony. They were married a few hours earlier, and got safely and quietly away.

Albany, Ga., has a quaint advertiser, whose specialty is roof-fixing, and whose style is shown in this paragraph: "Lots of men would be up-stucken and midgety when everybody praised their work, but I am not that way. I speak just as politely to a man as I can, and he owns a metal roof. That's my way."

A curious lake has been found in the island of Kildine, in the North sea. It is separated from the ocean by a narrow strip of land and contains salt water under the surface, in which animals, corals and other marine animals flourish. The surface of the water is covered by a perfect forest, and supports drayhorses and other fresh water creatures.

If the story that Gen. Wylie, the new Spanish commander in Cuba, had thirty political prisoners shot the other morning proves true, we may expect to hear of reprisals. It must be that Gomez and Macero have plenty of Spanish prisoners, and being able to let them go, they will soon capture more, and then the war will degenerate into savage butchery.

An Illinois judge denounced in unmeasured terms the recent lynching disgrace in that state, which had no excuse whatever, as the victim was not wanted to be tried and the case against him was by no means clear at the time. He said that the mob was in the last, and sentenced him to the gallows. The Illinois authorities owe it to themselves to punish the lynchers, if they can possibly be identified.

Mr. Joseph Chamberlain is just now being pointed out as a hopeful man who has his eye on the friendship of the United States. He has had the advantage of all Lord Salisbury's mistakes and of being able to say the right thing after the latter has said the wrong one. It is he who secured the transfer of Jamestown to England and who persuaded President Kruger to follow. These are two rather remarkable achievements and have undoubtedly done much to heal the British soreness over Venezuela and Turkey.

Stamp collectors are a source of considerable revenue to many countries. New Zealand recently issued a large number of stamps with scenic designs, and so great was the demand from collectors that the supply was soon exhausted. The authorities thought the color of the stamps was not good, and the different color was almost as great as it had been for the original series. In seven months nearly 400,000 cards were bought by the hobbyists, bringing the colony a clear profit of considerable sum.
